FINAL APPEAL IN RICE STRIKE AS ALL SHOPS IN CITY CLOSE

Commercial Body Issues Strong Letter To Dealers

POLICE PREPARED

Regulars In Barracks And Specials Mobilised

Official Shanghai, both foreign and Chinese, spent last night in tense and careful observation of the situation which has arisen out of the Council's recently promulgated regulation to license the rice shops in the Settlement, following the issuance of which the shops, first in the Settlement, then in the French Concession and, finally—yesterday—in Chinese territory have ceased their sales.

With the police of the International Settlement confined to barracks, the reserves mobilised and ready for despatch by motor truck to the scene of any outbreak, and the military police guard in Nantao and Chapei heavily re-enforced, a strong final appeal was directed to the rice merchants last night by the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, which has been carrying on negotiations with the Municipal authorities.

STRONG FINAL APPEAL

In a long open letter directed, under the organisation's seal, to every rice shop in the Municipal area, the Chamber states that assurances were received yesterday from the chairman of the Municipal Council and the Senior Consul that the merchants have no cause for worry over the clauses in the regulations to which they have taken exception; that the Council is willing to allow the guild to handle records of stock; that police and health office inspections will not in the least interfere with the businesses and that the Council is willing to enter into further sympathetic negotiations and, if the system when inaugurated, is found to be objectionable the matter may again be taken up.

SOME OPTIMISTIC

Other Chinese organisations have also come forward with final exhortations to the shop men to resume business and there was an undercurrent of hope last night that their appeal may be successful. But the feeling was by no means general and it was regarded as improbable even by the most optimistic that the shops will open for trade for several days.

The letter of the Chamber of Commerce follows:

"With reference to the Council's proposal to licence the rice shops, the Council stated in its letter of July 4 that the rice shops should be requested to resume their business before negotiations can be made to amend the conditions of the licence as suggested in its letter of June 25.

"Since the letter of the Council on June 25 was not quite clear in its meaning, we approached the chairman of the Council today. He stated that what was referred to in the letter of the Council on June 25 had the same meaning as that contained in the letter of this chamber under date of July 3. For example, the chairman said, the stock of the shops which are members of the Chia Kuo Tang Rice Guild, can be recorded by the Chia Kuo Tang itself without the interference on the part of the police for investigation or inspection.

SENIOR CONSUL WRITES

"Furthermore, we are in receipt of a letter addressed to the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs by the Senior Consul today to state that the chairman of the Council had given him, the Senior Consul, a verbal assurance that the police and health officers would not in any way interfere with the rice shops in their periodic reports on the amounts of their stock.

"Should the appearance of this assurance in writing be capable of dispelling the suspicion of the rice shops, the Senior Consul said, he would be very glad to secure this assurance from the Council's chairman.

"This Chamber, while appreciating the position of the rice shops in refusing to carry on business, in joining in a general strike and sacrificing so much for the safe

Drugs Hidden In Holiday Cards New Trick To Fool Police

Detectives who arrested Antonio Concilio in New York City recently, noticed a peculiar form of picture post card in the house. The card bore a picture of a woman's shoe, one of the toes puffed out. In the puff, they said, they found a "deck" of heroin. Such cards are probably used to send drugs to men confined in prisons, the detectives said.

REPORT ISSUED ON DEFEAT OF UNGERN'S FORCES

His Effort To Encircle Town Of Troistkosavsk Is Defeated

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 3.—The following report from the Chinese Official Observer is dated Chita, June 18:

The official report of the headquarters staff of the Far Eastern Republic, which announced the defeat of some of Ungern's forces in the neighborhood of Troistkosavsk, though somewhat belated, may be taken as much more reliable than the sensational reports sent by White telegraph agencies from Manchuli, which make it appear that Troistkosavsk is already in the hands of Ungern.

Ungern divided his forces into three detachments as soon as he crossed the Mongolian frontier and tried to encircle this important frontier town (Troistkosavsk), which is only four versts from Kiakta and Maimaichen and which possesses a strong Red garrison. After some minor successes, due to the fact that a certain number of Red troops stationed along the frontier had deserted and crossed into Mongolian territory, all the White detachments were forced to retreat, leaving behind them a number of camels laden with fodder and other supplies.

REFUGEES FLEE

Many refugees, principally Jewish families who knew what fate awaited them if they fell into the hands of Ungern, have arrived at Verkhne-Udinsk, which is 230 versts from Troistkosavsk. The military authorities of the Far Eastern Republic have been kept well informed as to Ungern's movements, and immediately took the necessary steps, by sending strong reinforcements to the frontier line at this sector. Though there are but a few hundreds of soldiers at Verkhne-Udinsk there are numerous troop trains full of troops along the railway west of Chita, ready as reinforcements if needed, and on the 10th instant the advance guard of a cavalry division, transferred from Minsk and the Polish front, began to arrive at Verkhne-Udinsk.

This division is said to be 8,000 strong and consists of Tvor Cossacks, who are said to be a very formidable fighting force. The Commandant has established his headquarters at Verkhne-Udinsk and has sent detachments as far east as Petrovsky Zavod. For the time being this force, which is part of the regular forces of the Soviet Army, is being held in reserve. It will thus be seen that an arrangement had been made some time previously between Chita and Moscow for Soviet troops to co-operate with those of the Far Eastern Republic and to be brought into Far Eastern Republic territory when necessary.

REPORT IN COMMONS

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 4.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, declared that the Government had received two communications from the government of the Far Eastern Republic, the first one containing a declaration by the Constituent Assembly that it represented the whole people of the Republic and appealing to the Powers to establish normal relations, and the second one raising various questions, including that of Japan and Eastern Siberia.

Mr. Harmsworth added that the Government had no diplomatic relations with the Far Eastern Republic and that no reply had been sent to either communication.

There are indications that other companies may adopt a similar policy.

STEADIER TONE IS APPARENT IN MONEY MARKET

No Announcement Concerning Bank Industrielle Notes Has Been Issued

ACTION TAKEN IN PARIS

Interpellations To Be Made In Chamber—Bank Asks For More Time

The value of bank notes issued by the Banque Industrielle de Chine is yet unknown as no agreement has been reached with Chinese Bankers Associations in various cities of China. Foreign bankers are not expected to take any action. Rumors were current late yesterday afternoon that an announcement would be made today that the notes would be redeemed at par.

Anticipated runs on local banks did not materialise yesterday and there was a general steadying in the money market. Cash requirements of banks reacted on the exchange and particularly in the morning rates varied considerably.

The afternoon saw banks filling their requirements and rates eased off to the extent that there were no sellers of sterling at better than 3—8 1—4 for July.

There was a marked optimistic trend, particularly in the afternoon, but the money stringency is expected to continue for some time.

The Bank of South Sea opened its doors yesterday and deposits totalled over Taels 9,500,000.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 4.—Advices from Paris state that the failure of the Banque Industrielle de Chine continues to attract attention.

Interpellations will be made in the Chamber of Deputies, while a question will be raised in the Senate with regard to certain telegrams which are said to have been sent from the Quai d'Orsay to French diplomatists in the Far East asking British co-operation to save the Bank.

Financial circles express the opinion that neither the French Government nor Parliament acted with sufficient speed or resolution.

M. Painleve, in the course of an interview, declared that if Chinese deposits in the Bank are not fully safeguarded France will have to give up in the Far East.

The Bank has requested that it be granted the benefit of the provisional war regime under the law of July 1919, providing for the prolongation of the moratorium until the expiration of three years after the ratification of peace. If this is granted, the Bank will enjoy a provisional respite in which, under the control of a specially appointed Administrator, it can continue to carry on business.

STATEMENT ISSUED

Paris, July 4.—With a view to dissipating possible misunderstandings of its alleged support of intervention regarding the Banque Industrielle de Chine, the Chinese Legation has issued a statement asserting total ignorance of what passed between Paris and Peking and saying that never up to the present has it issued any statement, either officially or semi-officially, and that the only business of one of its officials who was ordered to interview the Ministry of Finance and the Foreign Office was to obtain information.

WORK RESUMED GENERALLY IN BRITISH MINES

Expected Eighty Percent Of Workers Will Be Back In Course Of Week

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 4.—The resumption of work was most conspicuous in the Northumberland coal mines, where the colliers were waiting at the pitheads at dawn and by noon trainloads of coal were proceeding to the coast. It is estimated however that only about a quarter of the miners were able to re-start in the other coalfields and they were engaged in repair and other preparatory work. It is expected that eighty percent of the men will be employed by the end of the week.

There were hitches in some districts regarding the settling of details between the management and the workers and three collieries at Tirdonkin in Wales are idle because the men refused to accept the cancellation of certain pre-strike conditions. There was also some grumbling in Nottinghamshire and elsewhere that the new terms did not constitute a living wage, but the spirit generally is one of eagerness to resume work.

London, July 4.—The restrictions on the export of coal, which were imposed on the outbreak of the strike, have been removed.

London, July 4.—Reports from the coalfields indicate that the miners generally have resumed work, though only a limited number of coal getters have been able to start, owing to the condition of the pits.

Ten pits in Derbyshire remain closed owing to the prohibitive cost of restoring them, and three or four of them may never be re-opened.

SIMS ADVOCATES FREE SPEECH ON PUBLIC ISSUES

Admiral Contrasts Attitude Of America With That Of Europe

(Reuter's Service)

Newport, Rhode Island, July 5.—Admiral Sims, in the course of a speech here, urged that public discussion should be permitted as a safeguard to public interest. He contrasted the attitude of the United States in forbidding public criticism of officers of the Allied forces with the attitude of some European Powers, which actually rewarded beneficial criticism.

He pointed out since the armistice Lord Jellicoe, Lord Fisher, Sir Percy Scott, Rear-Admiral Bacon and Lord French had published books containing criticisms, compared with which any criticisms which had appeared in America seemed very mild. He said Americans knew less about the elements of warfare than the people of any other great Power, and he contended that a similar attitude could not be maintained without very serious risk.

Peter Sentenced To Death For Murder Of Two Chinese

Singalese Who Shot Two Szechuen Road Shop Assistants Must Hang For Crime

K. Peter, the Singalese who shot and killed two Chinese shop assistants at 284-5 North Szechuen Road on Sunday, June 5 because of their refusal to exchange a bottle of cheap perfume he had bought there two days previously, was yesterday adjudged guilty of murder on both counts and sentenced to death by hanging. The trial in the British Supreme Court lasted from early morning until nearly 6 o'clock at night.

The jury of twelve, which decided that Peter's offense must be classed as murder, deliberated but a few moments before they reached an agreement as to their verdict. The twelve men left the court room at 5:35 p.m., and before 5:50 they were in their places again ready to advise Judge Skinner Turner of their decision.

Peter, asked whether or not he had anything to say as to why the sentence of death should not be passed upon him replied tersely: "Nothing." The Court in reading the sentence classified the prisoner's crime as "a brutal and senseless murder." The prisoner gave no evidence of agitation when the sentence was read to him.

A keen interest among the Chinese of the Settlement was displayed in Peter's trial. The court room was crowded during the entire hearing. The majority of the spectators were Chinese. Mr. Hsu Yuan, Chinese Commissioner of Foreign Affairs sat on the Bench with Judge Skinner Turner throughout the day. Twenty-five witnesses, mostly Chinese, testified.

PETER TAKES STAND

The prisoner himself took the stand late yesterday afternoon in his own defense. He offered a provocation in that he alleged that the shopkeeper called him a harsh name on Saturday, one day preceding the killings, also, that he remembered nothing of what transpired in the shop, and did not recover his full faculties until late that same night. His lapse of memory he attributed to two large drinks of whiskey which he maintained he took with his breakfast at a little restaurant in Yalu Road.

Confronted with a full, clear, confession which he had dictated and signed the day following the murders, and with many bits of testimony that would prove that he must have been in possession of his full senses while in the perfume shop on Sunday morning, Peter still maintained that he "remembered nothing." He said he knew nothing of the confession even after it was pointed out that it was most clearly written and proven to be authentic in every detail that could be corroborated.

MADE CONFESSION

The confession which Peter dictated, signed, and then repudiated at yesterday's trial, follows:

I am 32 years of age, and I belong to Colombo. I came to Shanghai about two years ago with the Royal Italian Circus, lately I have been working in the Shanghai Fire Brigade and was stationed at Yangtszepoo. I did not like this work, so I left on June 1, 1921. I have not got another job.

On Friday morning, June 3, 1921, I went into a shop on North Szechuen Road, and I bought a bottle of perfume for $1.30. I was never in this shop before.

I took the perfume to a brothel, No. 42 Yalu Road. I stayed in this brothel all night Friday, and on Saturday morning I took the bottle back to the shop in North Szechuen Road, and I asked them to change it, because it stinks and was of no use.

They refused to change it. I asked them twice and said you must change it. One big boy in the shop said "go away, you bloody fool, we would not change it." I said alright you will not change it, so I threw the bottle in the shop, and only took away the paper the bottle had been wrapped up in. I then went back to the brothel.

DESCRIBES MURDERS

On June 5, 1921, I had some food at about 11:30 a.m. in a food shop in Yalu Road. I had my revolver in my pocket. I then called a ricsha, and went straight to the shop in North Szechuen Road, where I had bought the perfume. I asked them what are you going to do today, yesterday you told me I was a bloody fool.

I was talking to the big man then, he can speak English, he told me to go outside the shop and refused to change the bottle (when I went into the shop on Saturday the 4th inst. there was a foreigner in the shop and he heard this Chinese call me a bloody fool), so I took my revolver from my pocket and shot the man who had called me a bloody fool.

Another man inside the shop tried to stop me, so I shot him, I fired at another man inside the shop, but I missed him.

I went outside the shop and got into a ricsha. I heard police whistles being blown, and when near the Boone and North Szechuen Roads corner I got out of the ricsha. I saw a foreigner there, he shouted, give the policeman your revolver.

I gave the revolver to the Indian policeman, and asked him to take me to the police station, because if these Chinese get hold of me, I shall kill some more. I was taken to the Hongkew Police Station. I make this statement quite voluntarily, as I want the truth of this affair to be known.

(Signed) K. PETER.

The morning and afternoon hours of yesterday's trial were occupied with the selection of the jury and the taking of testimony. The prisoner was represented by Mr. Reader Harris, while Mr. A. G. Mossop, acting crown advocate, with Mr. J. G. Priestwood appeared for the prosecution. The jury was selected as follows: Messrs. R. C. Young, C. J. L. Steward, J. A. Hayes, E. M. Ross, W. G. Pirie, H. W. Allison, A. D. Galloway, A. Henderson, W. V. Field, T. Rogers, G. W. Chandler and F. B. Walker.

The testimony retold the story of the crime from the time Peter bought the bottle of scent until he was finally taken from his ricksha, with pistol still in hand, at the corner of Szechuen Road and Boone Road, and arrested by two Sikh constables and two foreign

Mr. de Valera was accorded a great popular reception.

The conference adjourned until July 8. It is officially stated that certain agreements were reached.

As already widely reported, the situation has undergone a remarkable change and a new atmosphere has been created.

While the conference sat, the multitude outside prayed with bared heads for peace. Later, the Lord Mayor, addressing the Corporation, declared: "Peace is in the air. During the past three hours one of the most delicate and momentous conferences ever held in Ireland has occurred and I have the greatest hopes for it."

Meanwhile it is stated that the Sinn Feiners are about to release Lord Bandon, the septuagenarian peer who was kidnapped when his residence, Castle Bernard, in County Cork, was burned down by an armed gang on June 21.

London, July 5.—The Lord Mayor of Dublin, Mr. Arthur Griffith ("Vice-President" of the Irish Republic) and other representative Dublin citizens went to Kingstown today in hopes of receiving General Smuts. Final Appeal In Rice Strike As All Shops Close conduct of their business, considers the greatest obstacle arising from the issuance of the license has been gotten rid off by the assurance of the Senior Consul that the police and health officers would in no way interfere with the rice shops in their periodic reports on the amounts of their stock.

"The verbal assurance of the Council, having been reaffirmed in writing by the Senior Consul in an official message to the local Chinese authorities, now has a strong force and, compared with the previous assurance we received from the Council, we have progressed one step further in our negotiations.

"All we merchants want in the carrying on of our business is safety. Since the safe conduct of our business has been assured us, we should not longer be disagreeable. Looking at the matter from a general viewpoint, we believe that the rice shops have already suffered considerable loss in the present strike and the rice consuming public can no longer stand further shortage of supply. Should the strike be continued much longer, we are afraid that some grave catastrophe will happen.

TAKES RESPONSIBILITY

"Therefore, we have no alternative but to appeal to you to resume your trade at once to avoid the danger and supply the human ration. As to the other objectionable clauses, this chamber has also obtained reliable assurance that they could be amended. If the rice trade has faith in us, we are quite ready to assume the necessary responsibility. Besides, the chairman of the Municipal Council has verbally declared that he is willing to open sympathetic negotiations with the rice dealers and will do everything reasonable to meet the aspirations of the rice dealers. If the rice trade later finds any unreasonable action on the part of the Council, the matter can again be taken up with it, according to the chairman.

"The chairman of the Council, no doubt, has uttered some very responsible statements and we trust that you rice dealers will no longer suspect the motive of the Council."

SHOPS OUTSIDE CLOSE

Nantao and Chapei rice shops stopped selling yesterday, in accordance with their previous announcement. There were several establishments in the latter district which continued selling throughout the day, under strong police protection, and it was said that other stores would arrange sales if large lots of cereal were called for. But the announcement at nearly all the shops was that stocks had been entirely disposed of and that further transactions would not be engaged in until the merchants in the Settlement resumed.

Following the notification that the shops in Chinese territory had joined in the strike the police of the various districts made preparations for eventualities. In the Settlement all members of the regular force were ordered to barracks, detachments of Sikhs were dispatched to the various districts and closer communications were established with the special branch, which has been standing by since the strike started.

Last night specials were mobilised at the Town Hall and motor lorries were available to carry them at a moment's notice to any part of the Settlement. Details of Chinese police were sent from various stations to the Gordon Road depot, where motor transport was also ready to hand, and where the recruits and a heavy detachment of the Indian branch were available.

The S.V.C. is not under special orders but officers are in close touch with the authorities.

In the Chinese city and Chapei the regular duty police were quadrupled in number and all food shops and those rice shops which had stock were under special protection.

TO OPEN DEPOTS

In anticipation of the suffering which must come to the poor if the shops remain closed a few days longer steps have already been taken in Nantao and Chapei to establish depots where rice may be procured at cost. Two locations have been secured in Chapei and one in Nantao and preparations are being made to have more rice shipped down to Shanghai from the producing centers.

It was reported yesterday afternoon that the Chinese City Magistrate had issued a proclamation to the rice dealers under his jurisdiction warning them that if they did not resume business within three days they would be put under summons to appear in court. This could not be confirmed, and the issuance of such a proclamation was generally regarded as improbable.

Shops in Pootung were open as usual and numbers of buyers travelled across the river and purchased supplies. The authorities are taking steps to avert a closing of the Pootung shops.

Many of the Chinese newspapers printed editorials yesterday calling upon the striking dealers to replenish their stocks and begin selling, leaving the settlement of the license controversy to negotiations. Various Chinese business associations also issued further appeals. As a result of the attitude with which the guild members have received his attempts at conciliation Yih Kung-yu, senior committeeman of the Chia Kuo Tang Rice Guild, has tendered his resignation.

About sixty coolies employed by the Public Works Department in the Wayside district went on strike yesterday morning, demanding an increase in wages. The strike is said to be a development of the rice situation. There were no instances of disorder in connection with it.

RAIL WORK HELD UP

(China Press Correspondence)

Chefoo, July 2.—The beginning of the construction of the Chefoo-Weihsien Railway is about as far off as ever. Reports every now and then are in the Chinese newspapers stating that the scheme is about to be started but it is impossible to verify them. The mud road makes some progress but few think it will be all right for motor traffic.

A vast amount of building is going on all the time. Dwelling houses and business places are being built and soon there will be few available open spaces in this port.

FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION IS HELD IN LONDON

Need To Correct Wrong Views Is Seen By American Ambassador

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—American Independence Day was celebrated in London by the flying of the "Stars and Stripes" on many buildings and the holding of numerous American gatherings.

The American Ambassador, Colonel Harvey, at an Independence Day dinner confessed that he perceived the world situation far more clearly than when he left home. The mutual helpfulness which, he said, they all desired could not be realised until two grave misapprehensions had been removed, namely, the impression in Europe that the people of the United States were universally prosperous, partly owing to the war and the American idea that the peoples of Europe were not doing their utmost for themselves, before seeking help. He proceeded to dispute both beliefs by quoting figures and relating the results of European investigations.

Referring to better relations between Great Britain and the United States, Colonel Harvey said there was good ground for hope that the apprehensions of perilous possibilities in the Pacific might be dispelled sooner than was commonly anticipated. Disarmament, he added, would naturally and inevitably follow if that consummation were attained.

Mixed Court Jottings

A mafoo charged with the murder of a man named Siau Boong-dai, who was stabbed to death on Chekiang Road last August was sentenced to three years' imprisonment by Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Kwan in the Mixed Court yesterday. He is to serve six months of the term and the remainder is to be suspended. The accused was one of a number implicated in the assault and surrendered to the police two weeks ago. Mr. F. J. Schuhl appeared for the defense.

An ex-soldier who went to a jeweler's shop on Sinza Road Monday and attempted to steal a gold ring by substituting a brass one for it when the wares were displayed was given a month's imprisonment, to be followed by expulsion.

A cashier formerly employed by Messrs. H. S. Honigsberg and Co., appeared yesterday on the charge of embezzling from that firm. Mr. H. S. Honigsberg testified that the accused had admitted taking $383, making false entries in the books. Mr. K. E. Newman appearing for the accused submitted that the money was only temporarily withdrawn. An adjournment was given to permit examination of the books.

Two lodging house keepers were fined $10 each by the Mixed Court yesterday for allowing opium smoking in their establishments, which are located at 62 Shantung Road and 17 Shanse Road. The operator of an opium den at 1926 Haining Road was fined $30 and three inmates of the place were fined $3 each.

BLAMES WHISKEY

Mr. Mossop, in summing up, maintained that Peter entered the perfume shop on the morning of the shooting, with a grudge and in a bad temper, yet, he said there had been no provocation sufficient for such a crime. Peter, he said, was sober, calm and perfectly sane when arrested a few minutes after the murders had been committed. His actions and statements all were those of a sane man. His claim that he "doesn't remember" could not be true. It was a clear case of murder.

For the defense Mr. Harris admitted the shootings, and added that while he would not claim the epithet "bloody fool" was sufficient to warrant murder, he would rest his case on the prisoner's statements that after partaking of the morning whiskey he had lost his recollection and sense of events.

He urged the jury that if they became convinced that Peter did not know what he was doing in the shop, the prisoner could not be guilty of murder.

The charge of the Court to the jury set out that the first issue was between murder and manslaughter. The question to decide was: "Did he know or not, what he was doing?" Murder he defined as the unlawful killing by a sane person, with malice aforethought, or as he explained, intent. The issue then became whether or not the act was intentional. He recalled the points of the testimony that would indicate that Peter had all through the events transpiring in the perfume shop, and afterwards, acted as a rational man. If the effect of whiskey was to be considered, he explained that the jury must believe that he was so drunk as to be incapable of forming an intention to kill. Whereas, if Peter's condition were adjudged as not drunk he must be found to be sober. There was no option, he said.

DEATH SENTENCE

After the verdict of the jury was read and the sentence of death was pronounced, the formal sentence was slowly read and interpreted to Peters as follows:

"K. Peters—The jury has rightfully found you guilty of two brutal and senseless murders. It does not need any words from me to emphasise the brutality of your actions on that Sunday morning. All I have to do is to fulfill the law and to sentence you to the only sentence that I can give, which is that you be taken from the place where you now stand to His Majesty's prison in Shanghai and that on a day to be fixed by His Majesty's Consul-General you shall be taken to the place of execution in said prison and there be hanged by the neck until you are dead, and that your body shall be buried within the precincts of that prison. May God Almighty have mercy on your soul."

Tls.9,500,000 Deposits Received On First Day At Bank Of South Sea

Impressive Inauguration Of Banking Institution Established By Overseas And Prominent Local Chinese; Over 1,000 Attend

Another noteworthy chapter was written to the history of Shanghai's finance yesterday when the China and South Sea Bank was inaugurated with brilliant ceremony. About ten million taels were deposited with the bank on the first day of its establishment. One customer handed in the sum of Tls. 6,500,000, while other depositors totalled over Tls. 3,000,000.

The bank, which is established by Overseas Chinese, is capitalised at Tls. 20,000,000, of which 25 percent is paid up. The amount of the capital as shown by the books of the bank to the Government Inspector, Mr. Fu Shao-un, was Tls. 5,250,000.

The managing director is Mr. Oei Tjoe, a wealthy Chinese of the South Sea Islands, who holds the controlling interest in the enterprise. There are three executive directors: Mr. Sze Liang-chai, managing director of the Shun Pao, Chinese newspaper; Mr. Han Shih-chi and Mr. Wang Ching-hsiang. Other members of the board of directors are Messrs. Wu Hsiu-sung, Ma Yi-chien and Yih Yuan-ping. Messrs. Hsu Kuo-an and Tao Yuan are the auditors. The general manager is Mr. Y. Hou, who was formerly Manager of the Bank of Communications at Peking.

More than a thousand guests attended the opening ceremony yesterday, including Consular and local Chinese officials, magistrates of the Mixed Courts, managers of the leading foreign and Chinese banks and industrial enterprises and other notables.

The reception began at 10 o'clock in the morning, after which a continuous throng filed into the spacious building and congratulated the directors, managers and their staff.

Hundreds of silver shields, scrolls, loving cups and other forms of greetings were received by the management before the opening and the various offices were tastefully decorated.

HUSBANDS FEWER, MARRIAGE MART STARTS IN FRANCE

Would-Be Wives Line Up, Armed With Parasols For Defence Or Offence

KISSING UNDER GUARDS

Accepted Swains Retire, Those Rejected Receive Blow With Sunshade

Paris, May 28.—With a superabundance of comely marriageable women unable to find husbands, ancient marriage market idea is being revived in some parts of France, particularly in western departments, such as Poitou and Vendee. There tourists are witnessing some extraordinary sights, as scores of would-be wives line up the central market place, each armed with a huge colored parasol. Kissing is as common as smiles, the whole day being given over to osculating youngsters, abandoning all else to press lips, but always under the watchful eye of the market guard.

Frequently during the market a willing swain is accepted, the usual sign being that the couple turn their back on the rest of the crowd and continue their kissing behind a sheltering parasol.

But oftener the market fails to bring immediate results and the applicant is rejected by receiving a hearty blow on the shoulders with the parasol.

Officials insist that the practice should be extended to all parts of France, pointing out that in districts where wives are chosen like vegetables there are more happy marriages, fewer divorces and fewer illegitimate children than in any other departments.

In Paris the movement has taken another form. New matrimonial bureaus are opening daily, all of them being designed to lure spare francs from the working class of girls, but apparently operating in good faith, and well equipped with long lists of the names of men who are willing to become husbands. The usual fee is 200 francs, paid in advance, with the promise of another as soon as the spouse's confidence is obtained sufficiently to enable the wife to "touch" him for a loan on the pledge of wifely obedience.

More Hopeful View Taken Of Cotton Market Outlook

Advance In Prices Held Probable If Trade Conditions Abroad Pick Up

(Reuter's Service)

New York, June 10.—(By Mail) Quite a number of merchants are pointing out that even with splendid crop conditions, a good advance in cotton prices and in cotton goods is probable if trade conditions abroad pick up considerably. A well-known local cotton man, who has just returned from Belgium, declares that, while Belgian mills are stocked up with goods purchased by the trade at high prices and turned back on the mills, if cotton prices should hold steady for a short time, retailers, whose shelves are empty, would be encouraged to replenish and thus cut down present burdensome supplies and relieve the situation materially.

On the other hand, it is declared by merchants here that should chaos, depression and unrest continue abroad for another year or so, then even a disastrous crop, added to present supplies might prove too heavy a load for the South to carry.

RUMANIA BUYING

Word has come from Austin, Texas, that Rumania has made a proposition for 100,000 bales of cotton, to be financed by the Government, and involving some ten million dollars.

The carry-over continues to command increasing attention from the trade and one local authority, whose opinion is valued by the trade, thinks the total world's supply of American cotton for the new cotton year may be a little over 19 million bales, allowing for a crop of not more than 8,500,000 bales. Considered in terms of prices, he thinks everything depends on the course of consumption, now running at the rate of about ten millions per annum.

STOCKS HEAVY

A New Orleans house finds that the South still has a large amount of cotton to market—about 3,528,000 bales more than at this time one year ago—the total being 6,582,000 bales. This firm estimates the carry-over at about ten million bales, or four millions more than last year, but declares: "In view of the fact that spindles in all countries of the world have been running on short time this season, and English mills on half time for the past five months, it is reasonable to presume that, since mill curtailment in the production of goods has been so extensive for such a long period, stocks of shell goods in merchants' hands, especially in Asia and Central Europe, are well-nigh depleted; therefore prospects are for a material increase in the world's consumption of American cotton from now on."

The news from Texas early in the week was of too much hot, dry weather, but this has been now partially relieved by good rains in the central part of the State. A large percentage of the cotton in Texas is said to be very late and small, and therefore it needs plenty of moisture to make a good stalk. Outside of Texas the crop has made good progress during the week, and little complaint has been heard, except of weevil damage in Georgia.

U. S. Destroyers Are At Chefoo

Other Units Of Squadron Are Expected To Arrive In Near Future

(China Press Correspondence)

Chefoo, June 30.—The vessels of the American torpedo flotilla arrived in Chefoo yesterday afternoon and are now lying outside the Breakwater. There are at least a dozen of them in addition to the supply ship which is anchored beside them. There was much excitement when they came in and a large crowd of Chinese gathered from all parts to see them. They made an imposing picture as they sailed in and took up their respective positions. Other units of the American squadron are expected here within the next few days.

While foreign residents do not seem at all pleased with the thought that so many of the sailors are to be here for the summer, Chinese shop keepers are delighted. Cooks too, are anxious to leave their present situations as they feel they can earn more dollars by serving the wants of the U.S. Navy.

Siberian Port Freed Of Plague

(China Press Correspondence)

Chefoo, June 30.—The local Health Officer has received a communication from the Health Officer at Vladivostock reporting that there is no more plague there. This should ensure that Chefoo is safe for the present. While Vladivostock was an infected port and vessels were plying between here and there, the possibility of Chefoo's becoming contaminated was always imminent. This danger would now seem to be removed.

The local Chinese papers were somewhat incensed at the restrictions which were placed upon the Ralph Moller. It was learned that the Tao Yin was anxious to send the marooned passengers off Long Island but that the strong pressure brought to bear upon him by the American and British Consuls prevented his doing so.

It would have been an extremely unwise act on his part, had he carried out his desires. The Chinese papers however, do not seem to have understood either the need for the reasons for quarantine unless plague is rampant and their comments on Dr. Malcolm were pathetic, while their endeavors to eulogise the Tao yin and depict him as a type of compassionate humanitarian were extremely ludicrous. They would deceive only the ignorant.

Mrs. Asquith Booms Daughter As Writer

Thinks Princess's Articles Will Be Very Interesting To Public

London, May 28.—Mrs. Herbert H. Asquith ("Margot"), the publication of whose diary late last year stirred fashionable and political circles in England, says her daughter, Princess Bibesco, wife of the Rumanian Minister to the United States, is not going to write about Washington for the American magazine with which she has contracted to prepare a series of articles, but that it is likely her articles will be on her impressions of America.

Mrs. Asquith thinks these impressions will be very interesting, saying that Princess Bibesco is as observant as she herself is and "she has seen a good deal of the United States, although she has been there only four months."

Plagiarism Suit Has New Complications

Paris, May 28.—As a result of Pierre Benoit's suit against a British magazine which charged him with plagiarism from Sir H. Rider Hagard's novel "She," in the structure of "Atlantide," several minor French authors are said to have combined to sue Paris newspapers on a similar complaint, intending thereby to settle once and for all the question whether a writer shall be allowed to readapt world old situations by giving them a modern dress.

Attorneys here are divided on the subject, but the majority are inclined to adhere to the theory that there is nothing new under the sun, and if the Judges uphold this view newspapers no longer will be able to point out that an old plot has been worked over in a modern novel without running the danger of having to pay heavy costs.

Rarest Of Stamps Go Under Hammer

Paris, May 28.—The world's greatest stamp collection is to be sold at auction by the French Government next month, and is expected to bring at least 100,000,000 francs. The collection was started by Ferrari de la Renautiere, and at the outbreak of the war was owned by an Austro-Italian syndicate, although it was kept in Paris, where it formed the center of the world's philatelist markets. When it was sequestered some of the neutral owners of the collection tried to prevent its sale, but the Government decided to reject their pleas.

Before the war the collection, which contains more than 75,000 stamps, including the rarest Mauritius, Cape of Good Hope and Guinea series, was valued at 50,000,000 Francs. It is understood that French philatelists are trying to raise a fund to keep the collection here, but American amateur collectors, if the exchange rate on the dollar does not drop, will likely control the market.

KING AND QUEEN OF BELGIANS GET ROYAL GREETING

State Banquet Held In Their Honor—Colorful Scene At Victoria Station

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—A state banquet was given at Buckingham Palace last evening in honor of the King and Queen of the Belgians and was attended by the Prime Minister and other Ministers, the Japanese Ambassador, the overseas Prime Ministers and Indian Princes and distinguished soldiers and sailors.

The King paid a glowing tribute to Belgium's steadfastness and the chivalrous conduct of King Albert and his heroic consort during the war.

King Albert replied suitably, emphasising Great Britain's unswering devotion to the maintenance of the integrity of Belgium.

The baton of Field-Marshal of the British Army has been conferred on King Albert.

SCENE AT STATION

London, July 4.—There was a brilliant scene at Victoria Station today on the arrival of the King and Queen of the Belgians on a visit to England as an official acknowledgment of Great Britain's help to Belgium during the war.

The royal visitors were met at Dover by the Prince of Wales and were received at Victoria Station by the King and Queen, Queen Alexandra, The Duke of York, Princess Mary, the Prime Minister, Lord Curzon, Admiral Lord Beatty, Field-Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, Air-Marshal Sir Hugh Trenchard, the Lord Mayor and other distinguished persons in dazzling uniforms. The station was decorated in pre-war splendor. Queen Mary kissed King Albert on the cheek.

A procession was then formed and made its way to Buckingham Palace.

The anxiety prevailing in Honkew yesterday was probably responsible for the small attendance of children at the matinee of the Kansu Earthquake pictures: "Where the Mountains Walked." The program was, however, distinctly a success as far as the matter of interesting the children was concerned. Their absorbed attention was given to the pictures and their interpretation by Mr. Hall, and a decidedly bright spot to all the kiddies was the brilliant exhibition of conjury by the local wizard, Mr. Reginald Kay, who, to cap the climax of the show, created an armful of eggs out of thin air.

Fire Endangers Kung Yik Mill

The Kung Yik cotton mill, Jessfield and Robison Roads, was endangered by fire which damaged several Chinese houses nearby early this morning. The fire department received a telephone call at 12:12 a.m. and two machines were sent from Sinza Station.

Shortly after the Settlement firemen had started for the blaze, Manager Smith of the Kung Yik mill asked for assistance. The bamboo fence surrounding the mill property was on fire and the mill staff was fighting the blaze.

Quick work was made of the fire after the Sinza apparatus arrived and the all-out signal was given at 12:32.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain replied that the Prime Minister would try to make his statement as complete as possible. Commander Kenworthy asked what was the present position of affairs in view of the statements published in the press, and Mr. Chamberlain replied that he was not in a position to say.

PECK IS APPOINTED

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 5.—Mr. Wyllys Peck has been appointed substantive Chinese Secretary to the American Legations.

Russian Opera Co.

In Rigoletto, last night, the Russian Grand Opera Company scored perhaps its biggest success to date. The plot of Verdi's Opera is not pleasant, almost approaching morbidness in its presentation of the misery that a king raises in other's lives when he sets out to amuse himself. This, of course, is the feeling Victor Hugo intended to arouse when he wrote "Le Roi s'Amuse" from which the libretto is an adaptation by P. Ave.

The acting of the opera is of the most difficult type, and it must be said that the stage portrayal was not convincing. Grand opera cannot, however, be judged from the standards of the drama, and if more attention were paid to the acting, the charm of the singing would doubtless suffer.

The company deserves the large houses which it is nightly drawing. The singing last night showed a polish which could only come from long labor, and should win large support. The orchestra under either of its capable directors works as a perfect reinforcement of the singers.

Miss Kasanskaya, as the sweet and attractive young Gilda, took prime honors last night with her wonderfully clear high soprano. Her duet with Chirijianovsky: "My heart calls, I love thee," received protracted applause.

Svetloff, as the prince, exhibited a very fine high tenor, and Miss Burskaia, the best actor which we have yet seen in the company, had all too little opportunity to display her rich contralto. We hope to hear her yet in a leading part. Chirjianovsky, as Rigoletto the jester, occupied, of course, the center of the stage, and from the operatic standpoint, filled his part well.

Tonight's program is one which all opera-goers are looking forward to, as "Eugene Onegen" will give the Russian artists an opportunity to present the tragic life of their own people, in the original language of the opera, and the unsurpassed music of Tchaikowsky.

Tuyenquan Defender, Col. Domine, Is Dead

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 4.—The death has occurred of Colonel Domine, the heroic defender of Tuyenquan in 1885 when, with six hundred troops, he was besieged and held out for three months against fifteen thousand of the enemy until he was relieved after having lost one third of the garrison, which was practically without food or ammunition. Colonel Domine lost an arm at the time owing to the explosion of a bomb.

SHANGHAI MEETS ALBANY AT 5:15 P.M. TODAY AND ON FRIDAY AGAIN AT SAME TIME

Shanghai Hopes To Play The Huron On Saturday; Management Building Batting Cage; Hopes To Keep Players' Eyes On Ball

Shanghai opposes the cruiser Albany baseball team again this evening at 5:15 o'clock. It will be the third meeting of the two teams. The first game resulted in a 14 to 0 win for the locals, when Mal Maloney pitching allowed but four hits, and the second game played as the last half of a double header on the Fourth saw Merrill shutting the navy out in a no-hit, no-run game.

These scores however do not tell the true worth of the Albany nine. It may be conceded that Shanghai is playing strong baseball, that they have sufficient first-line pitchers available and have found their batting eyes, and are consequently entitled to win. But the Albany men it must be remembered are but getting their first spring practice, for the year 1921.

Arriving in port but a few days ago, the Albany men stepped right into a tough game with the flagship for the right to represent the Navy in the big Holiday game against Shanghai, and though they were in their first game since last September, in fact in their first team work out, they played the Flagship to a 2-1 loss that had the Admiral's nine worried until the final out was scored in the ninth.

Given a little batting practice and a chance to warm up their pitchers, after a cold spring at Vladivostok, the Albany nine will put up a game of baseball that will make Wilhoit's men hustle. Every game the Albany men play will see them in stronger form, and on one end of a shorter ended score.

Tomorrow also the local team meets the Albany nine. Saturday's date is still open, but it is expected that the Huron team will come out for a return engagement after their loss of the Fourth game. Weaver, the flagship's only pitcher, who it was said was half down with spring malaria last week should be in box shape by Saturday. Manager Ross of Shanghai is waiting to hear from the Huron about a game on Saturday.

There were but few men out at practice yesterday. Mal Maloney was the only man in uniform. Terry, with a sore arm, and Hopkins with a bad knee were out, but the big gang rested up after the double header of Monday. Maloney was supervising the construction of the piping for a new batting cage which will be used after Big League fashion at all daily practice and pre-game workouts in future.

This afternoon it is expected that Brad Crow will be presented with a bouquet of picul of rice or something in view of the announcement last night of his engagement. Brad is a nice steady ball player and should make a good husband.

CHICAGO FIGURES TO GRAB PENNANT

New York Weakened When Caruso Fouls One Into Metropolitan Bleachers

BY "BUGS" BAER

Chicago's chances look good for the pennant now that Mary Garden is playing the infield, outfield and umpiring. Mary has just sold her team by the waiver route and will scout in the looking glass for new players. Mary's imagination has a wide range. She sings the prison scene from "Il Trovatore" so naturally that the audience thinks she belongs there.

Another star stunt of Mary's repertoire is the sextette from "Lucia" with the other five singers missing. She wants no rivals around. Her singing of the Salome part is wonderful although the Chicago police have requested her to wear more clothes on her voice.

New York doesn't figure so good since Caruso grabbed a charley-horse trying to throw a high note in from the outfield. Moose Factory is also out since the temperamental balloonists decided that exile in the subway was better than fifty straight weeks in snowdrift vaudeville. It looks like Mary can't lose provided she keeps the sure thing gamblers away from her augmented orchestra.

Mary hasn't decided on the color of her home uniforms as Salome and Zaza never paid any excess profit taxes to the tailors. She has cut out the balk motion in her songs with gestures and wound up her last full game with no free passes, no hits and eighteen of the audience left on the bases. She is wonderful as the page in the Encyclopaedia Britannica. We think it's the last page.

She plays Romeo and Juliet so well that the jury thinks Romeo a porch climber. There are two kinds of life insurance. Endowment and alimony. Mary sings the Juliet part as if her heart was in her work, but there wasn't any work. Nobody has yet succeeded in answering Johnny Dooley's question as to whether forty dollars was too much to pay for a tombstone. With the buffaloes being exterminated on our Western plains, Mary will have the prairies to herself provided she thinks that grand opera is too small for her talent. It is wonderful to think that this marvellous woman cried perfectfully at the age of two without a rehearsal.

—The hermitess of Chicago opera is a primma donna to the bone. One of her delicate gestures in Salome knocks the audience off their seats. And when she plays Delilah and Samson, she cuts the Biblical commuter's hair with operatic technique that would make a real barber put his chair in dead storage for the Winter.

Mary will start out for the pennant just as soon as the spiders spin her next costume.

PEARSON-BARRETT VICTORS IN MIXED TENNIS DOUBLES

Win 6-3, 6-1, From Mrs. Ford And Brown In Final Match

Mrs. C. D. Pearson and Captain E. I. M. Barrett handily won the mixed doubles championship of the Settlement yesterday afternoon in the final match of the successful tournament held under the direction of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association.

The winning duo took two straight sets from Mrs. J. T. Ford and Mr. M. B. Brown, taking the first, 6-3 and walking away with the second by a 6-1 score.

Mrs. Pearson was by far the outstanding performer of the afternoon, playing sterling tennis. It was the first time in the tournament that she was at her best and yesterday saw her driving and placing unusually well. Captain Barrett also played well and the winning pair were much too strong for Mrs. Ford and Mr. Brown although the latter played excellent tennis.

Australians Make 143 Runs For Two Wickets In Second; Hobbs Submits To Operation

England Scores 259 Runs In First Innings, 148 Behind; Famous Surrey Batsman Stricken With Appendicitis

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 4.—The weather at Leeds, where the third test match was resumed today, was overcast and cool. The attendance numbered 27,000, which was even more than Saturday's.

The English first innings, which stood at 22 for two wickets when stumps were drawn on Saturday, was resumed by Hardinge 11, and Ducat, 3. Misfortune came early, for Ducat was unluckily dismissed without adding to his score. The batsman was making a stroke off McDonald when the ball broke the shoulder of his bat and flew into the hands of Gregory, in the slips.

A marked improvement came when, with the score at 67 for five wickets, Brown, Hampshire, joined Douglas. The pair played confident cricket and put on 98 for the sixth wicket. Douglas' 75 was made in very steady fashion.

Tennyson, who succeeded him, had a bandage on his damaged hand, and the crowd gave him an ovation for his fortitude. He made a brilliant all-round display at the wicket, hitting up 63 in an hour and ten minutes, 40 of his runs coming from boundaries. Brown also batted in excellent style for 57.

Thanks to these three batsmen the innings, which had started so badly, realised 259, but it was an additional blow to England that Hobbs was unable to bat. Australia's two fast bowlers, McDonald and Gregory, shared six of the nine wickets.

The Australians—148 runs ahead—opened their second innings with Bardsley and Andrews as before. England was fairly lucky to dispose Bardsley and Macartney for 25 and 30 respectively, but, thanks to 78, not out, from Andrews the innings total had reached 143 for two wickets when stumps were drawn.

Harvard Jumper Smashes Record

Cambridge, Mass, Saturday, May 21.—Ned Gourdin, Harvard's negro sprinter, broke the intercollegiate record in the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet 6 inches and won the 100 and 200-yard dashes at the Harvard Stadium this afternoon, giving Harvard a 59 to 58 victory over the Princeton track team.

The outcome of the meet was in doubt until the final event, the 220-yard dash, which Gourdin won.

Sapin of Harvard won third place in this event giving the crimson the one point margin that gave them the victory.

FILIPINO BOXER TAKES LAST COUNT AT MELBOURNE

Dencio, When Aged 17, Bested Veterans Of Ring And Held Three Titles

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, July 5.—Dencio Cabanela, the lightweight boxing champion of the Orient, has died at Melbourne.

Dencio Cabanela was by far the best known of Filipino boxers. He was champion feather and lightweight of the Orient, and the most sensational figure discovered in the ring game since the advent of boxing in the Far East.

His flash to pugilistic fame had a meteoric touch. A boy of 17, weighing 119 pounds, he acquired three titles within the space of a few months—bantam, feather, and lightweight. One of these, the bantam, he has been forced to relinquish by reason of having added several pounds in weight.

The other two he still retains, and has defended successfully against all comers with the exception of Llew Edwards. And Dencio had improved since he boxed Edwards. Dencio's last three opponents before sailing for Australia, Jerry Monahan, Lew McFarland, and Francisco Flores, were all stowed away before the tenth round.

Among Dencio's defeated opponents were Dago Frank, Syd Godfrey, Tommy Ryan, Young Cohen, Vince Blackburn, Abe Brown, George Ingle, Billy Hughes, Lew McFarland, Iron Bux, Jerry Monahan, Francisco Flores, Harry Holmes, and many others.

Dencio left for Australia on the Nikko Maru, January 21 with Eddil Tait, Manila fight promoter; Rid Pelky, heavyweight champion of the Orient, and Francisco Flores. Dencio was very successful in Australia.

Carpentier Is Willing To Meet Anyone In The World—Except Dempsey; Says He Hurt His Hand Training But Kept It Quiet

(Reuter's Service)

New York, July 4.—Except for a swollen right hand and a cut under the left eye, Carpentier emerged from the fight in good physical condition. M. Descamps, Carpentier's manager, announces that Carpentier will not retire from the ring and he is willing to meet any pugilist in the world except Dempsey whom he admits to be his superior.

Carpentier wants a challenge for the world's light heavyweight championship which he holds by virtue of his defeating Battling Levinsky. The Frenchman plans to rest for a few days at his Manhasset training camp, and then seek another match, preferably with Bill Brennan or Tom Gibbins, the leading American heavyweights.

M. Descamps says that Carpentier injured his right wrist while training a fortnight ago, but the injury was kept secret because Carpentier feared that it might be thought that he was preparing an excuse in case of defeat. The Frenchman then started training secretly. Carpentier said he took the aggressive against the advice of his manager and trainer in order to show the Americans that he was game. Dempsey, he said, fought cleanly and he makes no excuses for his defeat.

Mr. Tex Rickard, the promoter of the fight, estimates his net profit at $500,000.

Miss Bleibtrey Makes New Swim Record In 220

Honolulu (T. H.), May 29.—Ethelda Bleibtrey of New York established a new world record for the women's 220-yard dash, open water, last night when she swam the distance in two minutes and fifty-three seconds over a hundred-yard course. Haig Prieste of Los Angeles won the national junior championship high dive and Ivan Steadman of Melbourne set a new Hawaiian record for the 200-yard breaststroke, covering the distance in two minutes and fifty-three seconds.

The previous record for the women's 220-yard dash, in open time, but over a fifty-yard rack of Australia in the same water, was made by Fanny Durcourse under more favorable conditions.

HARVARD RALLY BEATS PRINCETON

Crimson Ties Score In Ninth And Wins In Tenth By Score Of 4 To 2

Princeton, May 28.—Harvard took the annual baseball series with Princeton here this afternoon by defeating the Tigers on University Field, 4 to 2. A brilliant ninth inning rally when the Orange and Black seemingly had the game sewed up with a two run margin and two men out, saved the day for the Crimson. Until that point the contest had been a pitchers' duel between Margetts and Goode, with an edge favoring the former.

The Tigers tallied twice, first in the third period, when Margetts walked, went to second on Gorman's sacrifice and tallied on Blair's wild heave to second to catch him, and again in the eighth when, with two gone, Gorman singled, stole second and came home on McPhee's safe bingle.

In the ninth Blair retrieved his misplay by singling cleanly to center after Owen had fouled out. Murphy, batting for Haddock, popped up a fly, but Crocher hit safely to right. Hobbs, running for Murphy, secored when Berg overthrew third. Buell, running for Crocher, also tallied on Janin's safe hit.

Harvard won in the tenth frame, when Lincoln was safe on Gilroy's bad heave. Lincoln then stole second and reached third on Conlon's grounder. Gilroy uncorked his second disastrous wild heave of the inning, throwing Owens's grounder wild to Fisher, permitting Lincoln to cross the plate. Murphy then singled to the pasture and Conlon brought in the Crimson's final tally.

Army Triumphs Over Navy Nine By One Run

Generals And Others Officers Join In Wild Demonstration As Winning Run Is Scored In Ninth—Home Runs Bring 8 To 7 Victory

West Point, N. Y., May 28.—A flotilla of navy craft sailed up the Hudson to West Point today and cleared for action off the "Plains" baseball diamond. Army wheeled its biggest guns into battle formation, bringing them to bear on three Navy pitchers, and when the smoke had cleared the Army lads had sunk the Navy craft to the last ship and won the annual baseball game between West Point and Annapolis by a score of 8 to 7.

It was a close and exciting finish which the West Pointers staged, and it threw the ten or twelve thousand spectators, most of them Army supporters, into ecstacies of joy. Gray haired Generals and low ranking Lieutenants vied with each other in the noise-making demonstration which followed the Navy's defeat.

Admirals and naval officers of lesser rank watched the Army celebrate a victory over the Navy in sports for the first time in five long years. Not since 1916 has the Army mule stalked about with such reckless abandon as featured his march around the field at the head of the Cadet Corps after today's game. There was no Navy goat in evidence today. The middies had substituted a bull terrier, which was game and fought the fight to the finish, but the mule's hind legs caught the Navy mascot in the ninth inning and laid him low.

Capt. Wilhide, Don Storck, "Kid" Cragin and Stevenson shared the honors of the Army's hard earned victory. Wilhide clouted one of Neimeyer's offerings into Battery Knox for a home run in the fourth inning, driving in two Army runners ahead of him and completing the circuit himself. This tied the game at 6 all, after it had looked like another big Navy day. Don Storck, who beat Fordham with a home run a week ago, smashed a long hit over Harris's head in the next frame for a home run, which broke the tie.

Navy tied it in the sixth and then Stevenson obliged with the hit which won the game in the final frame. Cragin, cool and collected, kept Navy's tingles scattered, and though he got in a hole several times he as frequently tightened up and was well supported. Army scored in the opener, a base on balls to Wilhide, a steal and Storck's hit over second doing the trick. Navy dented the pan thrice in their half of the third and took the lead. McGrath walked two men in this inning and hit a third batter. Poole, with a drive to center, and Fleming, with one over first base, accounted for these tallies.

In the next inning the Navy bulldog took another big chunk out of the mule's flanks and annexed three more. McGrath began by free ticketing Pino. Army rushed Cragin into the slab, but Rawlings, a manager, would not be denied and his triple to center scored Pino. Humphrey's sacrifice fly to Smythe scored Rawlings and Stubbs drove one through the box. Barchett was winged, but Poole's drive was played slowly by Don Storck and Stubbs came home. Barchett was erased at the plate and Hogan fouled out. All this gave Navy a 6 to 1 lead.

Fleming started the fourth badly by walking Stevenson and Cragin. After which he was taken out. Stevenson was out at third on Dasher's roller, Neimeyer to Poole. Cragin going to second. Bonnett was winged, filling the bags. At this point Harris dropped McGrath's fly in center and two Army runners raced home. Capt. Wilhide then cleared the bases in his drive into Battery Knox. The Army broke the tie in the fifth when Storck smashed his mighty one over Harris' head.

Navy's run in the tenth was the result of Cragin's passing of Hogan. Neimeyer's single advanced him to second. Cragin wild pitched him to third. Rawlings's hit to left scored him. Army won in the ninth, Smythe hitting a sharp one through Barchett. The latter knocked it down and without a chance to get Smythe tossed it past Humphreys, Smythe going to second. Don Storck's grasser was also too hot for Barchett, Smythe taking third. He came home with the winning tally when Stevenson's pop bunt dropped safely behind Gaines, with the Navy infielders floundering about in an effort to find the ball.

Tonight the Cadets took the score board into the mess hall with them and celebrated at great length. The Army mule feasted himself sick on beans and the post burned red fire until well into the darkness.

Americans Careful Putters, Says British Pro Champion

BY ABE MITCHELL

London—When Vardon and Ray returned from America last year they warned us of the wonderful improvement that has taken place in amateur golf across the Atlantic since 1914. It almost seemed as if they were trying to frighten us. But whatever takes place in the championship which is still in progress as I write, the result of the international contest is sure proof of a very notable advance.

Have the Americans overtaken and passed us? This may even be true, but it should be remembered that the war has robbed us of an almost complete generation of golfers, players who lost six years of practice whilst they were on service and that there has not been time for a complete recovery.

ATTENTION TO PUTTING

I am sorry I have not been able to go to Hoylake, but I am told that nothing in the play of the Americans has been more convincing than their putting. They have undoubtedly given this phase of the game very close study, realising that to miss a putt is worse than to top a drive. There is possibility of recovery in the latter case, but none in the former. The stroke has gone beyond recovery.

I am told that American methods have undergone a change. We used to think them so cautious and careful as to rob themselves of their freedom. There was a player in my amateur days named Schmidt who came over and made himself a dreadful nuisance. He was so slow that he held up the whole championship field. Before every stroke he took three or four practice swings and his opponents before the end of the round were so weary and worried by the proceedings that they sought relief by turning their back on him. But this unfortunate feature of American golf has, I am told, completely disappeared.

Bobbie Jones makes up his mind and plays the shots with almost the speed of Duncan. All this is very significant for it means that confidence has driven away anxiety and the excessive caution which it creates. Most of the Americans are playing with the ordinary cleek type of putter. That used by Jones has a rather short shaft and he stoops slightly in the way that is fairly common on this side. True to the American style he overlaps the first and second fingers of the left hand over the little and third fingers of the right. Francis Ouimet on the other hand favors a rather short shaft and he stoops almost upright. Both elbows are pointing outwards in line with the putt and the club is swung in pendulum fashion. By both methods splendid results are achieved.

EVANS NOVEL PUTTER

"Chick" Evans has introduced a rather novel putter. During practice he was unofficially told that it was not a legitimate implement though he had had it made specially to conform to the rules. Finally before using it in the international the American champion submitted it for approval by the St. Andrews committee. The putter has an aluminium head fashioned in cleek shape. That is to say it is about an inch thick with the toe square. Indeed it looks like a Schnectardy cut in half, but with the shaft at the heel instead of in the center. It is, of course, a perfectly fair club satisfying all the rules of St. Andrews.

In my time as an amateur we thought Evans a poor putter. He was so very liable to miss the short ones. In the meantime he seems to have sought salvation and found it by experimenting with different clubs. Vardon and Ray last year declared that he was the best putter they had seen during their tour. This was a little surprising to those of us who remembered Evans' own misgivings when he had to hole out. Last year he had a still more novel club than the one he is using at the present time. The head was in the form of a hollow triangle, two stays running down from the bottom of the shaft and being fixed to the ends of the blade. But Evans knew that it would be useless to bring this club to England. It is a center shafted club carrying out the principle of the Schnectardy though made of steel instead of aluminium.

One impressive thing features the putting of all the Americans. They make up their minds on the correct line to take quickly and there is no hesitation in sending the ball on its fateful journey. But there is one thing about which they are most painstaking. This is in positioning the feet and getting the body properly balanced. They are as steady as a rock: there is not a perceptible turn of either head or shoulders. It is probably this and the smooth swing and striking of the ball which is the secret of their deadly holing out. At home they are accustomed to thickly grassed greens that are kept moist by nightly watering, but the sun scorched and shining turf at Hoylake has not placed them at any apparent disadvantage.

There is no more difficult department of the game than putting and happy is the man who can putt steadily all the year through. Few do so, yet any beginner at a putt which is not too long will almost certainly hole it, while we who have played for years approach the putt with fear in our hearts. The beginner simply goes up and after perhaps squaring himself up rather awkwardly to the ball proceeds to hit it straight into the hole. The putting all round at Hoylake seems to have been good. I always think that the British amateur putts confidently because he does not play so often as the professional in big matches, though when he has to mark a card at his spring meeting he becomes a trifle anxious.

Were the shots all similar, perhaps putting would be easier to us all, but every shot is different in some way or other. Perhaps one may get a putt which is dead straight. On the next green the putt may have a slight borrow from right to left. So the everlasting changes go on all the time and thus golf is what it is, one of the hardest, if not the hardest of all the ball games.

Can't Use Bathing Houses To Live In

Paris, May 28.—The last hope of defeating the high cost of living was dashed to the ground by the decision of the Paris Court of Appeal that bathing shacks on the Calvados coast cannot be used for residential purposes and renters will not be allowed to cook meals in them.

The case has been pending since last autumn, when a Paris family, finding house rent too high, obtained a small hut with bathing privileges, but they immediately installed in the hut two small cots, a steamer trunk and a portable cooking apparatus.

The owner protested that it was understood the rent covered the use of the shack for only a few hours daily, but the beach squatters spent the winter in their cramped but cheap quarters. Unless the Court of Cassation intervenes they will return to Paris and, like others, will pay rent ten times as high as in 1914.

McCully's Brood Of Russian Kids Goes a-Swimmin'

Washington, May 10.—Rear Admiral Newton A. McCully took his whole adopted Russian family of seven in swimming today in the Washington tidal basin.

Admiral McCully said that three of the girls are already fairly good swimmers. The admiral conducted the family personally in and out of the water.

After the swimming lesson, the party walked to their home in Seventeenth street, where, in their neat blouses, two of the girls holding the hands of their foster father attracted much attention.

Handwriting Shows One's Delinquency

French Experts Hand Down Literary Dictum On Character

Paris, May 28.—If your handwriting is not of the best copperplate style, absolutely regular in all its features, you are a "canaille" and everybody knows that a canaille is good French for scoundrel. But, says Monsieur Crepieux Jamin, head of the French Graphologists Society which celebrated its semi-centenary this week, and issued this dictum, there is a special interpretation of the word "canaille" when talking about penmanship and that it is not necessary for a literary canaille to have offended public morals or to have been condemned of more serious crimes.

"Every irregularity in handwriting," he said, "whether it is too much inclined or not enough, whether small or flowing, whether depicting an abandoned style also depicts the definite abandon of some detail of personal character producing graphic canaillehood or delinquency. But as far as the writing is concerned, this delinquency may be perfectly sane and innocent although at the same time abnormal."

Paris Burgears Make Big Haul Near Police

Paris, May 28.—Paris is quite excited over her burglars and their unprecedented boldness when under the nose of a hundred police officials at the prefecture of police itself, with policemen walking up and down the corridors saluting their homegoing superiors, intruders stole from the municipal laboratories on the ground floor more than seven pounds of platinum valued at about 120,000 francs.

The loot comprised 110 pieces of various shapes held in reserve for chemical research purposes. This is the third platinum robbery in the last few months, the first being the cutting of the lightning rods on Notre Dame Cathedral at midnight to obtain the precious ball of platinum concealed at the base of each rod.

The latest robbery is believed to be the work of the same gang acting under the direction of unscrupulous dealers who are able to dispose of the loot where France's platinum supply is sold monthly.

Caucasus Fears Famine

Constantinople, May 28.—Although gay night life prevails in nearly all the cities of the Caucasus region, the people are said in advices received here to be literally dancing on the edge of a volcano. Famine is expected in June or July, and under the surface there is a deadly fear of a reign of terror.

Theaters, concerts, lectures, dancing parlors and other places of amusement are wide open everywhere, but bread is costing 5,000 rubles a pound, while 12,000 rubles is required to purchase a pound of sugar.

Your Health Comes First

Good Health is your most valuable asset;—its preservation should, therefore, receive your most careful consideration. An important point which should always be borne in mind is the fact that a great many forms of ill-health can be traced, directly or indirectly, to disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is wise, therefore, to keep these organs in healthy activity. When they show any signs of derangement let that reliable medicine, Beecham's Pills, be taken at once. Always deal with digestive ailments in time. They are far-reaching in their possibilities of mischief if neglected, as they too often are. NEW FRENCH TAX HAS DISASTROUS BUSINESS EFFECT

Disappointing In Its Results And Repeal Considered Almost Certain

PASSED ON TO CONSUMER

Buyers Struck And Receipts Fell To Third Of Government Estimates

Paris, May 28.—France being one of the two countries which has experimented with a sales tax such as has been under discussion in the United States, the American people might be interested to know the result of the French experience in this connection. The tax has worked badly in France, according to both the Government and the man who pays the tax, but how much this is due to the inefficiency of the French tax machinery, which is notorious, is a question.

"The French sales tax has shown itself as exerting a disastrous and paralysing effect on business generally, and it is only a question of time until it will have to be superseded by a more rational method of raising money, such as an increased levy on salaries and other incomes."

This statement was made to a correspondent of The New York Herald today by Guillaume de Tarde, State counsellor and adviser to Lucian Dior, Minister of Commerce. M. de Tarde is considered one of the best tax experts in France. As he indicated, the tax is so disappointing in results that its repeal is almost certain as soon as the Government experts determine on an alternative policy.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

Meanwhile Parliament is considering for the fourth time a new series of amendments to the measures which are designed to stop the gap until another tax system is devised. Regarding the operation of the tax, M. de Tarde said:

"Never before has France devised a tax which was received so badly by both business firms and the public, the former because of the inquisitorial inspection methods which are necessary to prevent wholesale dissimulation in accounts and the public because of the tendency of the business men to throw the burden, wherever possible, on the purchasers rather than on their own business profits. It is impossible to collect the tax without having Government agents making the closest scrutiny of business records. It is also impossible for French finances to support such an army of functionaries as this would require, and as the tax therefore is left to the honesty of merchants and producers, who merely sign monthly statements of their sales total and pay to collectors, there is consequently much danger of the records being arranged to suit the taxpayers' purposes. It is unquestionable that the tax is passed on to the consumer in a majority of cases.

"This was particularly true recently when the public expected prices to fall and found that their failure to do so was partly due to the fact that the prices asked in many cases, as was frankly explained, were maintained by the sales tax. The result was that the buyers' strike became worse than ever, reducing greatly the amount of business done and producing a great diminution in the tax returns, as compared with the estimates. It is certain that a less intricate and more collectible method must be found. The only solution of the problem now presenting itself is the increasing of the tax on incomes, although this would affect the public just as visibly as does the present tax, and because of the present high rates on incomes an increased levy probably would arouse great opposition. But France must have money, and as the sales tax system has not satisfied any one the law will have to be changed."

RECEIPTS BELOW ESTIMATES

The sales tax was the pet project of Frederic Francois-Marsal when he was Minister of Finance, the government then drawing up a careful estimate for each month of what the tax ought to yield and calculating the budget accordingly. The result has been appalling, considering France's budget difficulties and need of money. Instead of yielding 2,300,000,000 francs, roughly, since its imposition, it has yielded only 1,400,000,000. February's receipts amounted to only one-third the estimates.

The French system gives the widest opportunities for dishonesty, especially in taxing so-called "de luxe" articles, the law providing a 10 percent levy instead of 3 percent on articles such as dresses, mantles, hats, &c., costing more than 500 francs each. But by changing the bill to show two dresses, for instance, at 500 francs each, instead of one bill for 1,000 francs, the French treasury immediately loses 7 percent, the tax on an article costing 500 francs being only 3 percent. At the same time prices of these articles are based on the higher tax rate, thus increasing rather than decreasing the public's burden.

Then there is a constant duplication of the tax, each middleman adding the percentage demanded by the Government, so that in many cases the tax will have been paid four or five times on the same article before it reaches the consumer's hands, each levy adding to the public's dissatisfaction and increasing the ire of the merchants when the Government, seeking a solution of the problem, orders the taxpayers to open their books.

Some merchants have estimated that the cost of living in France, especially in so far as clothing and household necessities are concerned, would have dropped more than 25 percent had the sales tax never existed, and naturally the public, realising they have been imposed on, will welcome a workable method of meeting France's financial difficulties.

FRENCH FARMERS GOING TO AMERICA

Hundreds Emigrate To Canada Also, Although Brittany Needs Soil Tillers

Paris, May 28.—With thousands of acres of the finest Brittany farm land offering splendid opportunities for development, northwestern France for the first time in history is sending hundreds of emigrants to the United States and to Canada, due to the publicity which has been given to the wheat lands of the western ranges. In one commune ninety passports were granted in less than a month, these being about equally divided between prospective American and Canadian farmers.

The attention of the French Government has been called to the situation, which is considered decidedly alarming, with the result that a special agent has been sent into Brittany to negotiate with farm laborers.

Plans are under way to establish a farmers' loan bank in the rural areas which will enable young farmers to buy their own farms and to develop them while paying off the original cost. Some of the biggest farmers in France have agreed to aid with funds, as they realise that if the emigration westward continues their own farms will suffer from lack of man power.

Even on a rental basis, it is being pointed out, a French farm of 160 acres can be worked for five years at less cost than it takes to purchase steamship and railroad tickets to the western wheat fields.

Woman Lawyer Worrying London

First One Admitted To British Bar May Have To Wear A Wig

London, May 28.—Old time benchers of the Temple are scratching their wigs to determine what garb is to be worn by Miss Olive Clapham, the first English woman to pass the bar examination. It will be eighteen months before she will be able to practise, but judging by the divergence of opinion it probably will need that much time to decide whether she will have to appear in court in a wig and gown.

It is realised that this is a delicate judicial feministic point which must be decided, because there are fifty women preparing for examination for the bar and nearly a score of them are well along.

FILM PRODUCERS FIND BRAINS ARE NEED OF MOVIES

Ulenty Of Pretty Girls In England, But They Lack Personality

FAIL AT HARD TRAINING

Want To Be Mary Pickfords Over Night, So Public Favors Americans

London, May 28.—Never have there been so many pretty women; never had pretty women less intelligence. That is the verdict of film producers in Britain and France who have been searching for months for stars who will outshine the popular Americans in the screen world.

The motion pictures that get over here feature Americans—Mary Pickford, Pearl White, Norma Talmadge, Clara Kimball Young and the others. Their very names posted outside will crowd houses in all parts of the British Isles, and this has led to a campaign to find English girls who are just as pretty so that they may usurp this popularity.

But if ever fair faces and dancing eyes failed to register they failed, according to the producers' decision. Men who want to make money in the movies have discovered that a pretty face is not enough—that brains are necessary. Hundreds of beautiful girls have been found, but they have failed miserably before the camera.

According to Rene Navarre famous French actor and film producer, who despaired of finding the right actresses in France and came to Britain to try his luck and was also unsuccessful, the only remedy is for the producers to combine and start an academy for film acting, in which prospective candidates can be put through a few years of hard training.

OBSTACLES TO ENTERPRISE

This dearth of good film actresses is the main obstacle to schemes such as that of the great film city founded by Navarre and built on the Los Angeles plan which has sprung up at Nice during the last few months. Navarre who aspires to be the Griffith of the Riviera, has several studios completed, with thousands of workmen building more. But his single absent attribute is the women stars.

Miss Violet Hopson, famous British movie actress, says that it is an unfortunate fact that very few girls in Britain succeed in becoming screen stars, while on the other side of the Atlantic such stars appear to shoot up in bewilderingly rapid succession. Miss Hopson has been working with Walter West Broadwest, producer, trying to discover promising British talent, but after much encouragement which they gave to many English beauties they admit that the result is distinctly disappointing.

"We have found that the girls, who are only too anxious to walk on in the early stages," she said, "become lazy, unpunctual and unwilling to work through the long hours that might inconvenience them. My own impression is that these girls generally are inspired by sheer vanity. They appear to be highly indignant if offered character parts in which they do not screen as beauties, while a very few, I fancy, are willing to undergo the hard drudgery that is really necessary for them to learn the business.

NO EASY ROAD

"I know from experience that there is no easy road to success in film acting. I am afraid the American girl who sets out with the ambition to arrive at the top as a film artist is inclined to be somewhat more thorough in her methods than the English girl. She is more apt to realise the necessity of studying human nature everywhere—in the train, the tube, the race course, the football field, the street and the restaurant. She watches manners and memorises types. The girl who wants to succeed must study literature, too. The heroines of the great tragedies and romances of ancient and modern times should be familiar to her. She must study history, particularly social history, so that she may know how people behaved and ate and drank and how they dressed in the days of long ago.

"The study of poetry too will stimulate her imagination and will help her in portraying scenes. A girl requires a strong personality. So many English girls are inclined to think that the possession of a pretty face will raise them out of the crowd that must be satisfied with small parts. They will not realise that in acting for the screen they do not have the aid of speech to portray emotions and that they must actually live and feel the parts."

A prominent English producer who likewise has given up in despair says that all applicants want to be Mary Pickfords over night. "These girls," he said "are inspired by seeing 'Little Mary' films, and with the natural beauty and coquetry they think they possess, and probably do, they expect to achieve wonders but they do not realise as I do that Mary Pickford spent years in the hardest possible work and the most careful study of human nature, nor that besides being pretty she is astonishingly intellectual, possessing faculties of insight which surprise her own managers.

"Until our girls develop in a like manner they will fail, despite their pretty faces, and our public still will be clamoring for American films."

Court's Ruling Soars Water Above Whisky

London, May 28.—The high price of whiskey cannot be compared to the high price of water under the ruling of Mr. Justice Darling. The Regents Canal Dock Company brought an action against the Globe-Wernicke Company, furniture manufacturers, for penalties for wrongful abstraction of water from Regents Canal, asserting that a hole was drilled into a side of the canal and water taken therefrom at the rate of 5,000 gallons a day.

The defendant company said the water leaked through, but the court awarded damages to the amount of £5,000.

U.S. LOSES CHANCE TO BUY EMBASSY

Option On Austro-Hungarian Quarters In Berlin Has Expired

Berlin, May 28.—Now that the American Government has decided to purchase its own emoassies and consulates, the Berlin mission is on the alert to find a suitable permanent home in Berlin.

The best prospect, however, has been lost. That is the former Imperial Austro-Hungarian Embassy in Unter den Linden, which might have been bought a few months ago for 5,000,000 marks and which was the most spacious and attractive embassy in Berlin. The option expired while Congress was investigating, and the building with its handsome garden and commodious office rooms and residence was sold for 7,500,000 marks. The former Turkish Embassy, in Tiergarten street, has also been sold, in the face of an American inquiry. The present embassy building is satisfactory, but is not for sale.

Beginning July 1 the embassy here must work altogether without foreign assistants, and this requires the dismissal of the staff of seven translators. This will not be so much of a hardship in Berlin, where the diplomatic staff knows German fairly well, but the enforcement of the new law that the diplomatic appropriation can be paid only to American citizens will work a hardship in such countries as Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, for the Americans in these countries as a rule cannot use the language and are dependent on native translators.

All British Fleet To Be Oil Burners

Storage Tanks To Be Built On Coast For Admiralty; Gibraltar Question

London, May 28.—28.—In a short time the British fleet will consist only of oil burning vessels, according to Commander Eyres-Monsell. In explaining the navy estimates in the House of Commons he said that according to calculations the Admiralty is spending less for oil than coal on the basis of calorific value. He said two tons of oil would do the work of three tons of coal, and that the use of oil would reduce the personnel. An Admiralty reserve of fuel oil, which is being established, probably will be completed in 1921, and it is planned also to build storage tanks around the coast. Answering the question whether the world's oil supply justified the conversion of all ships to oil burners, he said the supply would be sufficient for all needs of the navy.

Commander Kenworthy, member of Parliament, suggested that the naval importance of Gibraltar had completely changed since the progress that had been made in modern artillery, and advised that the Government either hand it back to Spain or exchange it for Ceuta, which, he said, would be less vulnerable as a fortress. Commander Eyres-Monsell insisted that Gibraltar would always be of the greatest strategic importance.

Nanyang Y.M.C.A. Gives Prizes In Recent Contest

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanchang, June 30.—At the annual reception for members at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon more than 300 men and boys were present when the prizes for the winners in the recent membership campaign were announced. Music was furnished by the Police Band.

The prize for the highest number of members introduced went to Yang Hsiao-chiu, Civil Governor of the province, and also captain of the Kiukiang team. Governor Yang's record indicated that he had introduced 93 men and boys during the campaign. Colonel Hsiao An-kuo, commandant of the 12th Division and captain of the Hankow team, was the winner of the second prize having secured the highest number of points.

Colonel Hsiao attended the meeting in person and in the course of a speech paid a tribute to the Association because of its program for all round development for young men and boys. He said that unless China introduced those things for which the Y.M.C.A. stood she would find herself more of a wreck in the future than at the present time.

Addresses were made by members of the board of directors and also by secretaries of the employed staff. In the course of the meeting a gift of $400 was announced as being a contribution for the year's work from the military governor, Chen Kuan-yuan.

The program closed with an exhibition of motion pictures.

The Association Summer School opens July 4th.

Tanah Merah Estates Meeting

The fifth annual meeting of shareholders of the Tanah Merah Estates, 1916, Ltd., took place yesterday at the office of the secretaries, Messrs. A. R. Burkill and Sons. Mr. C. R. Burkill presided and was supported by Mr. E. T. Byrne, Mr. Chun Bing-him, directors, Mr. W. A. Ogden, Mr. S. R. Owen and other shareholders.

The total number of shares represented at the meeting was 123,517. The secretary having read the notice of the meeting and the auditors' report, the chairman said:

"The report and accounts having been in your hands for some time, I will follow the usual course and take them as read.

"Dealing first with the accounts, you will see from the balance sheet that the company's liquid assets only just cover the sundry creditors, and the recent further depression in the price of rubber has necessitated the borrowing of some money since the end of the financial year. Every possible economy is being instituted and provided the price does not further recede, the directors do not anticipate having to borrow any very large amount.

"As you are aware, the company has a large reserve area of excellent land which it hoped to gradually plant up. The present circumstances in the industry preclude all possibility of doing this and under any circumstances it would appear inadvisable to increase the already serious overplanting and production of the past few years. The directors are disinclined to dispose of this land unless obliged to, as most of it lies directly between the planted areas and there is a danger of undesirable neighbors, but in order to obtain funds it would seem that at least a portion of it must be sacrificed.

"The output of rubber for the year was 6,700 lbs. less than that for the previous year and 40,300 lbs. below the estimate. This was caused partly by drought in the middle of the year but mainly by the institution of alternate day tapping, which was decided as advisable. At the end of the year 7-11ths of the producing area were on the alternate system and the results have proved most satisfactory. No estimate is given of the output for the current year, it will depend on the degree of restriction found practicable, financial circumstances in the past have made it impossible for the company to give the restriction scheme the full amount of support asked for by the Planting Associations.

"The situation as regards labor is very satisfactory and the dismissal of nearly the whole of the Chinese labor has been found possible. The Japanese force has been increased and now consists of settled and contented families on which the estate can rely for the future.

"As stated in the report, the company has purchased an engine, as the installation of power to deal with the large crop was considered necessary. The purchase of this engine was arranged for before the heavy fall in the price of rubber and the expense could therefore not be avoided. The further cost of installation will be postponed until conditions improve.

"The estate has remained in its previous excellent condition and the visiting agents reports are most satisfactory. With the exception of an outbreak of influenza in June the health of the labor force has been good. A hospital has been erected but owing to the depression in the industry has not yet been furnished.

"The directors take this opportunity of expressing their appreciation of the good services of the manager and his assistants.

The need for the utmost economy during the present serious crisis has up to the present hardly been realised by the management but an improvement in this respect will no doubt take place.

"If any shareholders wish to ask any questions, I shall be pleased to answer to the best of my ability."

No questions were asked; and the following resolutions were unanimously passed:

Proposed by:—C. R. Burkill.
Seconded by:—E. T. Byrne.

"That the report and accounts for the year ended March 31, 1921, together with the recommendation as to the appropriation of balance at credit of profit and loss account as presented be accepted."

Proposed by:—E. T. Byrne.
Seconded by:—Chun Bing-him.

"That the appointment of Mr. C. R. Burkill as a director of the company be confirmed."

Proposed by:—Chun Bing-him.
Seconded by:—W. A. Ogden.

"That Mr. E. T. Byrne be re-elected a director of the company."

Proposed by:—S. R. Owen.
Seconded by:—W. A. Ogden.

"That Messrs. G. H. and N. Thomson be re-elected auditors to the company."

Unsolicited Testimony!

The Manager, 7th August, 1920.
Electricity Department,
Shanghai Municipal Council.

DEAR SIR,

Due to the fact that we are FAIL TO MAKE PROFIT by using a engine, which by its SLOWNESS in work, EXPENSIVE in charges and also DIRTY and NOISY. The engine we are now using is 12-h. p. Having learned that an ELECTRIC MOTOR is a HASTY and ENERGETIC worker, it works QUIETLY, expends ECONOMICALLY, locates only a SMALL SPACE, and is EASY TO OPERATE. By the above several GOODNESS we would like to make a change and it might satisfy us when taking into use. Hope you will send us one for our benefit at your earliest convenience.

Very truly yours,

The original of the above unique summary of the benefits of the adoption of electric drive may be inspected and information concerning the subject matter obtained by application to

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

July 5, 1921

Spot bar silver was up 5/8d. and forward 1/2d. in London yesterday. There being a holiday in New York no quotations have been received from there.

The London-New York cross rate as received from London is unchanged at 373.

The official sterling rate here today was raised to 3/6, the Gold Dollar rate to 65¼, the Rupee rate to 273, the Franc rate to 810 and the Yen rate dropped to 72.

The market again was very firm throughout the day particularly for near delivery. As high as 3/9 was done for cash Sterling and 69¼ for Gold Dollars.

Rates varied considerably during the day, being influenced almost entirely by the cash requirements of some of the banks.

In the afternoon when these requirements had been filled the market eased off somewhat and at the close there were no sellers of Sterling at better than 3/8¼ for this month and 3/7⅝ for August delivery.

Gold Dollars were offered at about 69 for July and 68½ for August.

The local money situation still remains firm and while there was a slightly more optimistic feeling this afternoon the cash stringency is likely to continue for some time further.

India and China both bought silver in London yesterday and no doubt China at least will make further purchases.

FIRE POLICIES ISSUED AT CURRENT RATES.

HEAD OFFICE

Scottish Union And National Insurance Co.

The 96th annual meeting of this company was held at Edinburgh on May 4 last, and a satisfactory report was presented.

Despite the industrial and commerical depression during last year in the home country, the business continued to expand except in the Marine Department, which, in common with all other Companies, showed a decrease.

The life business was particularly large, exceeding all previous records.

The numerous and costly fires all over the World caused a diminution in the fire profit, and investments have been written down by £40,000 to maintain the Company in its thoroughly sound condition.

The total profit for the year was £143,000, and the usual dividend was declared of 30 percent, which is more than provided out of the interest on the Company's investments.

The sum of £159,655 was carried forward to next year.

The Company is represented here by Messrs. Rayner, Heusser and Co., Ltd., and Messrs. J. A. Wattie and Co., Ltd.

The Two Kwangs War

THE Cantonese are now confident that they will be successful in their present attempt to drive Lu Yung-ting and other militarists from Kwangsi. The Cantonese do not intend to occupy Kwangsi and rule it as the Kwangsi-ites did Kwangtung when they invaded that province in 1915 to help drive out Lung Chi-kuang and other monarchists.

There are many reasons why the Cantonese do not wish politically to dominate their neighboring province according to our Canton correspondent. In the first place, he says, Dr. Sun Yat-sen and his party are laboring for a republican form of government with local rule. The many Kwangsi-ites now supporting the Constitutional Government in Canton wish to see their own provincials enjoy better government. Dr. Sun has pledged his support for self-government in Kwangsi and has ordered all Cantonese commanders in Kwangsi territory to refrain from interfering with the local civil government. The Constitutional Government policy in Kwangsi will be closely watched by the peoples of Hunan, Kweichow, Yunnan, and other Southwestern Provinces. If they are satisfied with it, these provinces will not only outwardly recognise the Constitutional Government at Canton but sincerely co-operate with it in the effort to break down the Peking government.

Kwangtung has nothing to gain by political control of Kwangsi. Cantonese have been for years the captains of industry and commerce in Kwangsi and will continue to be so because of their long connections and permanent establishments. Kwangsi officials cannot afford to offend Cantonese merchants. Any misunderstanding between the two provinces will hurt the Cantonese more than the Kwangsi-ites. Kwangtung depends much on Kwangsi for her grain and other agricultural products, and all Cantonese merchants are anxious for an early settlement of the present struggle.

Except the city of Wuchow, and perhaps Nanning, very few places are revenue producers in Kwangsi. Kwangtung has difficulty in raising funds to maintain her government and will not be likely to accept more responsibility along this line.

Moreover, many Kwangsi Constitutionalists have expressed their desire to have their province returned to them for civil administration; and a society has been formed in Canton among the Kwangsi residents to prepare for the solution of their own internal problems without further interference from the Cantonese.

The Kwangsi-ites, especially the common mass, are not hard to satisfy. They hope for early peace so as to be able to resume their trade. They also wish the repeal of the many miscellaneous taxes now imposed upon them. In some towns and villages, 'one has now to pay a tax of more than two dollars for the butchering of a hog. The transit or likin tax also is troublesome. In fact, any relief from official extortion and irregular and high rates of taxation will be appreciated by the people.

The Cantonese have more to fear from their own people than they have from the Kwangsi-ites. Lu Yung-ting, the chief Kwangsi war lord, would have been satisfied with being the head of his state; but certain Cantonese politicians and officials of the old school are trying to regain power in Kwangtung, and these men have been intriguing in Peking for the overthrow of the Kuomintang, or Dr. Sun's party, at Canton and plotting with the disposed Kwangsi generals of Kwangtung for war against the present Government of Dr. Sun. A group of former Canton officials is now in Hongkong supplying arms and ammunition as well as money to the Kwangsi Army and to bandits within Kwangtung. Many of those who have been operating around Kaochow in Kwangtung are Cantonese who were one time or another under Kwangsi commanders.

It is believed that, as soon as Nanning is taken, and Lu Yung-ting ousted, a Kwangsi-ite will be appointed Civil Governor of that province. It is expected that the people of Kwangsi will inaugurate a self-government system as the Cantonese are now doing throughout their own district. The Constitutional Government under Dr. Sun will station troops at the principal ports of Kwangsi after peace is proclaimed.

"There is to be a reduction in next year's budget," says Mr. Chamberlain. The catch is of course, that "next year" never comes.—Eve (London).

Be still, my anxious heart! Be still!
Cast out all doubt and fear;
For Austen says perhaps he will
Economise—next year!
He swears to give us peace and plenty—
JUST as he did in 1920.

BRITISH INCOME TAX

"I shall be pleased to advise, without charge, any of your readers who care to write me exactly how any of the above claims should be prepared." Vide CHINA PRESS.

This seems the very man many of us have been looking for. To fill up an ordinary income tax paper is bad enough; to pay it is worse; and to get a claim for exemption is the absolute edge.

LINES FROM LETTERS

I came across a friend of mine a day or so ago whose evident hobby is collecting letters that are, to say the least of it, unorthodox. I give herewith a sample or three:

Mrs. B. wrote to the Ministry of Pensions during the war as follows:

Dear sir, I think it is time you increased my separation allowance as my husband is now in charge of a spittoon. Yours etc.

(The lady probably had some difficulty in spelling platoon.)

Another wife wrote to her warrior husband the joyful news:

Dear Sam, this is to tell you that I have been safely presented with twins, and hoping this will be satisfactory I remain your loving wife.

Another good woman who had to fill up a paper in order to get her dues wrote: "My husband is a mind sweeper." (And a very useful man, too).

A GILBERTIAN SITUATION

It is rather quaint and typically Irish, that the new Viceroy of Ireland should, by accepting a viscounty, actually lower himself in rank and lose precedence. But this is just what has happened to Lord Edmund Talbot, younger son of the premier duke of the United Kingdom. He is now Viscount Fitzalan of Derwent; and viscounts go into dinner after the younger sons of dukes.

But while he is actually in Ireland he has, of course, precedence over everybody else in the country, as representing the King in person. The Heralds are reported to be rather concerned at these Gilbertian vagaries of rank, but I have no doubt the Viceroy will survive the simultaneous raising and lowering of his rank all right.

Polish Army In Early Battling

A description of the actual condition of the Polish insurgent army in Upper Silesia, its method of fighting and conduct during the first stages of the revolt are given in the following article written by a New York Herald correspondent who accompanied the rebels when they launched their initial military operations.

BY SANFORD GRIFFITH

Oppeln, May 12.—Crowds of workmen and farmhands in military formation were shivering in the cold and rain outside an Upper Silesian town occupied by Germans. They were awaiting the hour for the signal to attack. They were for the most part armed with rifles, but some of them had shot guns and a few only clubs. They were not all young boys, for there were older men among them. All were dressed in the clothes they had worn at their work in the mines or on the farms. Many of them were without shirts, many had only the remnants of shoes on their feet, none had blankets.

Some said they had marched a hundred miles to the north from Pless. But none complained and all seemed to be gladly awaiting the fight. The New York Herald correspondent saw the same battalion three days later during the advance on Kandrzyn. By that time some of them had no shoes at all and all were ragged, but they marched forward under the red and white Polish banner singing the Upper Silesian independence anthem, which, freely translated, runs something like this:

"There will be a battle near Bytum. I'll be killed and my mother will mourn over my grave. But one day victory will come and Upper Silesia will be Polish and free."

WON'T GO BACK TO GERMANY

This recalled a speech made by an Upper Silesian architect during the plebiscite. "Now the eyes of the world are turned toward us," he said. "And this marks the moment of our freedom. We will never go back to Germany."

The writer heard the remark ring a hundred times from the insurgents during the present operations, but now it has been amplified by Adelbert Korfanty's vaunted threat: "We will leave the land another Sahara before we surrender."

The Polish uprising is a genuine people's war. It is true that it was plotted by a few leaders. It is true that it makes use of the roughest bandit bands of Europe. But even so it has become the war of an entire race in one of the densest districts of industrial Europe and cannot be ended without being understood as such. The Polish population represents close to 70 percent of the total within Korfanty's lines. It is revolting for the third time within two years against German rule and it refuses "to be bartered like cattle with their mines."

The only difference in the present revolt is that this time it has leaders and a program. It has an army close to 30,000 strong, according to its leader, and the additional support of 60,000 armed local volunteers and 50,000 reserves as yet unarmed. These fighters have been organised into companies and battalions under experienced leaders, 40 percent of them having been officers in the old German army.

The Interallied Commission at Oppeln daily published reassuring bulletins saying that order was being restored, that the general strike was over and that trains were beginning to run. But the Allies are helpless to move about in Upper Silesia excepting as the provisional insurgent Government permits. Order is being restored simply because the Poles now seek to operate the machine they have captured.

INSURGENTS UTILISE TIME

Each day gives the insurgents more time to dig in along Korfanty's frontier, to smuggle in more arms and to complete their military organisation. Korfanty and Nowina-Doliva, commander of the insurgent army, assert that they have won a military victory and now are concentrating for a political one. This does not mean that they feel themselves able to stand up and fight the world or even a German or allied army alone. It is simply that the initial victory combined with the general situation gives them hope that they can hold out until their political claims are recognised. The insurgents assert that they have put a fact accomplished before the Allies which cannot be ignored by the council of Ambassadors.

The insurgents held the entire countryside, with a few cities where the Germans and allied troops are completely encircled. The insurgents expect the cities to capitulate when their food supplies run short and they see the futility of further resistance. Among the Poles there are even many who voted German who now have been carried away by the enthusiasm of the Polish cause. Every village had mobilised its entire population and Polish flags are flying over all public buildings and factories. The real test of the inner strength of the insurgents will come when the first enthusiasm dies out and they find themselves confronted with food, wage and industrial problems.

The New York Herald correspondent went forward with the eastern insurgents with Commander Nowina-Doliva, entering the line with the so called death battalion at Kattowitz and reaching the railroad station at Kandrzyn with the insurgents after two hours of fighting. This was the final operation of the first phase and the one most disputed because the town, which is near the Oder River, is a junction of railroad lines running in both directions.

Col. Nowina-Doliva spoke confidently of the development in the operations and said he was convinced that the insurgents now installed on the Korfanty line could hold their own. He wore no uniform, only a brown tweed suit and cap and a red arm band decorated with the Polish eagle. The people greeted him everywhere except in the cities where there were Germans.

The insurgent commander was for twenty years the Kaiser's bodyguard and is an officer with a brilliant war record; but he admits that this uprising is his hardest campaign. Most of his brigade staff are old officers of the German, Polish or Austrian armies.

LEADERS ALL ARE FANATICS

The battle was timed for 8 o'clock the following morning, with three groups closing in on Kandrzyn simultaneously. The writer went to division headquarters with a brigade commander who is a former German lieutenant and a native of Upper Silesia. The leaders are all fanatics, determined to risk everything for the success of the insurrection. There is some mystery about them, because they all use pseudonyms, and several who are not native of Upper Silesia are reticent, because they seek to make the movement appear abroad as a purely local uprising.

The officers already had been working together for months preparing details for the uprising, and each one knew his exact functions. Now they work in close liaison with what might be called gangsters who are the leaders of the miners and metal workers and are trusted by them after ample proof of fidelity which they furnished during two years of secret and illegal war against the Germans.

The motor car in which the correspondent and officer were riding was stopped in every village by sentries. Processions of children carrying Polish and religious banners to celebrate the insurrection were encountered. In one village the alarm was given because of the rumored approach of thirty German policemen. Immediately a man came out of every house, armed with a gun, and, falling into squad formation, they marched forward, all being ready for battle five minutes after the alarm had been sounded.

The correspondent found Division Headquarters to be in the palace of Prince Hohenlohe. Here among Rembrandt and Matsys paintings the staff officers gave the gangsters or Sokol leaders their orders for the attack.

The following day after breakfast The New York Herald correspondent went with the Sokol leader of the death battalion to Kattowitz. He is a small, hawk featured youngster, who has a long list of killed gendarmes to his credit and a price of 100,000 marks on his head. This man was in command. The troops were found to be sober, with the exception of two cooks, who had consumed vodka for breakfast and were pounding each other on the head, one with a skillet and the other with a ladle, until they were black and blue, to the general joy of the onlookers.

The correspondent then visited the positions of three battalions awaiting the attack and found the men confident of winning and encouraged by the presence of a newly arrived field battery and guns on moving railroad platforms. A battalion of woodsmen from Pless was picked for forest mopping.

BITTER AGAINST ITALIANS

The bitterness against the Italians is great. Several insurgents were wearing bits of Italian uniforms and cartridge cases. There seems to be a general misunderstanding as to the significance of the plebiscite, and the belief is that the Italians simply are backing the Germans against the insurgents.

The insurgent army resembled genial bandits on a carnival celebration. Many had decorated their rags with bits of bunting and flowers, and red and white flags waved everywhere.

The fighting was delayed until 5 o'clock to give time for all the units to be fed and placed. Then the sound of machine gun tapping and rifle fire could be heard coming from the woods. All vehicles were put at the disposal of the wounded, even staff cars, the officers going about on foot.

There were some pretty instances of Slavish phlegmatism. During the most critical period of the battle a peasant wedding was celebrated 500 yards from the German lines. The natives, dressed in bright silks and shawls, were indifferent to the battle in a moment of more important celebration.

The correspondent accompanied Father Wozniak, an American priest of Polish birth, who in the insurgent assault led a battalion against machine gun fire. Father Wozniak has a brilliant fighting record, having received the French Military Cross and the Polish Eagle. Here he insists on leading his own men into action. Although he was caught between two automobiles and badly bruised he refused to go behind the lines, but hobbled ahead in front of his men when the zero hour arrived.

FIGHTING PRIEST RESENTFUL

On nearing Kandrzyn he met French, Italian and British officers who had come forward to recommend against the further bombardment of Kosel. The fighting Father Wozniak was not used to having Italians and Britons interfering with the Poles in getting their independence, and he told the Italian so in Italian and the English captain so in central Illinois American, ending up with the plain spoken suggestion:

"Damn it, why don't you go home and hold a plebiscite in Ireland?"

Later Father Wozniak recovered his priestly dignity sufficiently to apologize for his unpriestly language. He excused himself by saying that he had learned to be plain spoken during eight years he had lived in Detroit.

Another champion in the operations was a captain who had lost a leg fighting with the French cavalry, but who does gymnastic stunts on an American substitute of which he is very proud. He went with the red battalion on foot across the Ukraine and has since been twice wounded, yet today he goes joyously forth to combat, half hoping, he says, that he may find a glorious death in helping to free Poland.

At nightfall when the troops entered Kandrzyn all windows were dark and the town apparently was deserted. The original intention was to complete the operation in daylight and then hold the men in check, but now the difficulty in reforming the companies made plundering easy. The men were hungry and needed clothing, and so they took all they could find. One could see their flashlights flickering on and off and the sound of their rummaging could be heard throughout the town.

The German complaints about the incorrect military conduct of the insurgents surely was correct on this occasion. The total operation resulted in some 400 Polish casualties. This capture gave the insurgents the last strategic point within the Korfanty region.

JULY FOURTH AND THE CHILDREN

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir.—I desire particularly to commend your editorial this morning under the heading "One Missing Thing." Some of the individual members of the General Committee on the 4th of July had already been consulted, and the Committee will be called together early in the autumn to consider plans for the 1922 celebration.

I would be very glad to receive suggestions for next year's program to be presented to the committee. Any particular proposals received before October 1, will be considered, but each suggestion should include also suggestions as to ways and means.

The courteous offer of Admiral Strauss to open to visitors the U. S. S. Huron and U. S. S. Albany was thought by the Committee to afford the youth a rare opportunity under especially favorable circumstances. It is difficult to conceive any form of entertainment that would make a stronger impression on the minds of children than a visit under these circumstances to the flagship.

Sincerely yours,
Edwin S. Cunningham.

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's Distemper

is a unique preparation and has the recommendation of leading sanitary authorities, architects, and decorators everywhere.

Auction Bridge—Players' School

BY R. F. FOSTER
(Author of Foster on Auction, Auction Made Easy, Foster's Complete Hoyle, Etc.)

There are one or two refinements in connection with the use of the conventional double which time and experience have suggested as advisable. One of these is based on the more deliberate consideration of the ultimate object of the double, which among good players is to go game.

It is a well established fact that a partial score is of little use at auction, although it is undoubtedly of value at contract. It has been found that only about once in thirteen cases is a game won by the aid of a partial score that could not have been equally won from zero. At contract, the difference lies in the fact that one is not compelled to bid so high to get a game-going score below the line.

This being so, if we suppose the bidding to be at a love score and the object to be to get a contract that will go game, it should be obvious that some prospect of game should be in the cards, or it is a much better proposition to sit tight and defeat the opponents, if that is probable, or at least to save the game.

There are many persons who completely overlook this ultimate object of the declaration, which is to go game; or, if game is improbable, to save or set the contract. Consequently, we find them doubling on anything and everything, without any regard for the probable outcome. Their system seems to be to double any no-trumper if they have cards on which they would have bid no trumps as dealer, and to double any suit call if they have a few tricks in the other suits, but nothing in the suit called.

When the double was first used as a convention that is about the way it was used, but good players were not long in discovering that it would have paid them better to let the contract alone in the many instances in which the double resulted in a minor suit contract which did not reach game.

This gradually led to the restriction of the use of the conventional double of no-trumpers to hands in which the strength was in the major suits, because they are generally regarded as game-going suits. To double no-trumpers on hands in which the strength is in clubs and diamonds involves a double risk; the result may be to struggle along to make three or four-odd at 6 or 7 a trick, or it may compel the doubler to deny a major suit in which he has nothing. Take this example, from a duplicate game.

	H Q J 6 2 C Q 6 4 D 9 5 S A 9 6 4
H 10 8 5 C A J 10 3 D A Q 10 2 S K 3	Y A B Z	H 9 7 3 C K 7 5 2 D 8 6 3 S 8 7 5
	H A K 4 C 9 8 D K J 7 4 S Q J 10 2

Z bids no-trump. Those who did not pay sufficient attention to the character of A's cards, doubled, and when Y passed, B had to call the clubs on four to the king, without another trick in his hand. Had this club call been an original one and Z's cards held by second hand a double would have been in order; but in this case Z does not care to push the declaration by asking Y to bid, but leaves the alleged no-trumper on his left to play the hand in a minor suit, with little hope of game. If Y has a good call in either of the major suits he will make it. There is no necessity to force him to a weak one.

Against the clubs this is how it went at one table: Z led two winning hearts and then led the queen of spades through the exposed king in dummy. The king covered, and the ace won, the queen of hearts winning the next trick. Then a spade put Z in the lead again.

A small diamond gave dummy the finesse of the ten, and a small trump was won by the king. The finesse of the ten on the return, crediting Z with the queen, enabled Y to lead a third round of trumps, and after that Z had to make a diamond. Two tricks could have been saved by better trump management, leading ace and jack of trumps from dummy, instead of the small one, so as to get the second finesse in diamonds; but B was too intent on finessing against Z.

Two classes of players passed with A's cards—those who do not believe in overcalling no-trumpers with the lead and those who restrict the doubling of no-trumpers to hands that can support either of the major suits. In this case, even if A's suits were hearts and spades instead of clubs and diamonds, sitting tight would prove the better game.

At no-trumps, A followed the conventional opening of the club jack, so as to establish the tenace, even if Z holds both king and queen. The ten followed, so as to leave B in the lead later, to come through the diamonds, to dummy's weakness. The second club B won when dummy made the mistake of covering and led the diamond. The ten held. Another club won by B's seven and another diamond through set the contract. At one table Z lost two tricks by putting on the diamond jack second hand.

QUERIES AND ANSWERS—

RUSSIAN BANK

Question—My opponent has in sight a card that can be played on the foundations, but by postponing that move for a moment he is able to get free three other cards, and then to run the foundation play up several times. I insist that he must make the play on the foundation first.—H. S. B.

Answer—That is correct. It does not matter what the result of other transfers in the tableau would be, they cannot be made until after the play on the foundations, under penalty of having a stop called.

Question—If the non-dealer lays out four cards, does he proceed to make any shifts possible in them before the dealer lays out his four, and does he fill in the spaces also, or must he just lay down the four cards and wait?—MRS. H.

Answer—Each player is supposed to deal off his four cards at the same time.

AUCTION BRIDGE

Question—The bid is two spades, doubled. One of the adversaries revokes, with the result that the declarer is set two tricks. Had the player in error followed suit when he should have done so, the contract would have been made. What remedy has the declarer?—R. B. J.

Answer—The declarer has the option of taking two tricks, or fifty points. As two tricks will not put him game, he should take the points. He loses nothing by not making his contract, as the revoking side cannot score anything but honors, if they hold them.

Question—The dealer bids a heart, second hand a spade and third hand holds six hearts to the ace jack nine; queen jack of clubs; queen small in spades; three to the queen in diamonds. Is this an assist? If so, on what grounds?—E. H. S.

Answer—The dealer must have tricks outside hearts to justify the bid, if not in spades, in the minor suits, and with six sure tricks in hearts between the two hands, and four honors outside, this should be valuable support. In any case, the opponents should not be allowed to have it for a bid of one, when there are four honors, at least, to score in hearts.

POKER

Question—A, who has been losing steadily, opens a jack for the limit. B comes in and draws two cards to an ace and a small pair, making aces up. When A bets the limit, B. says he will lay down his hand, as A has lost enough. The third man C, then raises A, whereupon B. wants to come into it.—G. H. B.

Answer—As B announced that he would not call A before he knew what C was going to do, he must be regarded as having thrown up his hand, and it is too late to come in again.

Question—A opens a jack and stands pat. After the draw he bets, and is called by a player with a flush. On being asked to show openers when A acknowledges that the flush beats him, it is found that A did not have a straight. B bets A must give the others a free ride for not having announced his false openers until after the call.—F. L. W.

Answer—It is only when a player draws to false openers without announcing it that he is subject to this penalty. If A stood pat, he did not draw, and there is no penalty beyond the loss of all he has put in the pot.

TEXACO THUBAN COMPOUND
a liquid lubricant for—
Differentials, Worm Drives, and Transmissions of Automobiles

Texaco Thuban Compound is a heavy, mineral lubricant—not a grease.

It gives the best obtainable lubricating service because it sticks to gear teeth. No grade, speed, nor any other adverse condition will make "Thuban" sling off. It forms a protective cushion of oil which prevents metal contact when the gears mesh, thus reducing friction and increasing power. Notice the decrease of noise when "Thuban" is used. There is no clash and grind when the gears shift.

A very little "Thuban" goes a long way. You need only enough to bathe the gear teeth as they revolve in the power housing. This is because of its adhesive power which keeps a film on them at all times. "Thuban" is a real economy because you must use it sparingly for best results.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS

in

"HEADIN' SOUTH"

From Canada to Mexico!

The mysterious man with the SMILE had baffled the authorities. His prowess did not lie in brutality or physical destruction, but in cool, mental calculation.

He robbed the rich—to give to the poor, for THE SPORT of it all. But the fun really starts at the Mexican border when our hero enrolls in Spanish Joe's outlaw band.

The girl he meets, and the surprising finish to his wild and wooly career as a good Bad-Man, call forth thrills and laughter that will cement your great admiration for that wonderful American.
